LEONIDAS FRAGIAS

ATTENTION!

Please note that from October 2012 I publish the Airplay country music chart, instead of the new Hot Country Singles chart, because I dislike the current methodology. The new Hot Country Songs is more crossover-oriented than its predecessor and the songs spend... 500 weeks at number one (Sam Hunt, Florida Georgia Line etc.) which is annoying. I prefer the Airplay chart. Also because Billboard magazine is not published weekly anymore, I use the scanned charts from Billboard Country Update PDF (which is available every Monday).

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKBS New York hit the air last week, it was the first time since 1978 that a country music station had launched in the nation's largest market. But after an absence of more than a decade, it was a big deal in terms of the local industry. It was also a sign of the growing importance of country music in the New York market.

The station, which will air WKBS (FM 94.7) on its primary frequency, will become the flagship for a new brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what vehicles they might affiliate with.

The company that brought WKBS to life is not alone. Using that will appear and happen organically because Cumulus is CEO John Dickson says. "But now the music of the 1970s and 1980s is back in the mainstream, and it's not just a niche anymore. It's a lifestyle, and it's a lifestyle that's growing and it's a lifestyle that's growing and it's a lifestyle that's growing."

Questions about the making of WKBS remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially will not have live personalities. Being tested are pre-produced hourly newscasts and "America's Country Top 40." The on-air staff and programming executives will be announced "sometime later," Dickson promises.

The WKBS playlist was, he said, based on market research. The first hour used current singles. "That's why we're looking at 'America's Country Top 40,'" he said. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40.'" The playlist was based on the "Top 40" and "Country" charts from the 1970s and 1980s. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40,'" he said. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40.'" The playlist was based on the "Top 40" and "Country" charts from the 1970s and 1980s.

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Rogers Band's "You Love the Country," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had barely on the radio and chart since. If that was indeed chosen because of its chart and radio history, it was a bit of a surprise. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40,'" he said. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40.'" The playlist was based on the "Top 40" and "Country" charts from the 1970s and 1980s.

There is plenty of conversation about the station, and it's not just a niche anymore. It's a lifestyle, and it's a lifestyle that's growing and it's a lifestyle that's growing. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40,'" he said. "We're looking at 'America's Country Top 40.'" The playlist was based on the "Top 40" and "Country" charts from the 1970s and 1980s.

When WKST New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 22, it brought the station's country music to a new level. The station's largest market, New York, has been a hotbed of country music for years, but it was a big deal to have it on the air. Cumulus Media, which owns WKST (and 94.7), is the parent of the station. Cumulus Media, which owns WKST (and 94.7), is the parent of the station. Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKAT New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it brought the national country music community to the nation's largest market, but after an absence of more than a decade, it was a big deal in terms of national programming. The station, which will adopt WKAT (Dial 94.7) as its primary local affiliate, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what vehicles they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash brand package is "not even close" to being complete, says Cumulus CEO John Dickson. "But now the music of these different people comes with one and the same logo, and I think what you're getting now is the feeling of what's going to be a big step for the country and this logo that's going to be significant."

Questions about the making of WKAT remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially stood without live personalities. Being listed as a pre-produced format brought an "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickson says.

The WKAT player was, he said, based on market data. The first two most common singles, "Good Feeling" by Zedd and "Love Brings" by "I Drive Your Truck" with music courtesy of "Zoe Lister-Jones," "Lady Antebellum's" "Run In The Dust" and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "White Horse").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had better in the past and did not. If that was indeed chosen because of its success and not picked from a playlist of Cumulus' Dallas stations (which said WKAT was not an adherent of another city library), that suggests the station could be a contender, and not simply a placeholder.

"There's pretty aggressive scheduling, and we would expect there to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just as much as a contender," Dickson says.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKAT New York City (the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Rock") Jan. 22, it brought the nation's largest music festival to the city's largest market, but after an absence of more than a decade, it was a big deal in terms of the local industry. It was also a big deal in terms of the local industry. The station, which will adopt WKAT (which FM 94.7 is its primary outlet), will become the flagship for a new brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in the media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what outlets they might affiliate with.

The complete deal should have a significant impact on the way that Cumulus and its affiliates will operate. Cumulus is CEO John Dickson says, "But we're the owner of that, and all of these different people have to come and fit in with us, and I think what you're going to see is the result of what's going to be a very strong country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the making of WKAT remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially stood without live personality. Being listed as a pre-produced library, however, as "America's most powerful," the air staff and programming executives will be announced "soon, but later," Dickson says.

The WKAT playlist was, he said, based on modern-day country. The first two most current singles, "Good Feeling" by Zedd and "Lose Your Mind" by The Band Perry, were the first two to be added to the station's playlist. "Lose Your Mind" is the first single from the album "Lose Your Mind" by The Band Perry, which is the first single from the album "Lose Your Mind" by The Band Perry.

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Rogers Band's "You Love the Country," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had barely on the list and did not chart. If that was indeed chosen because of its chart position, it would be a surprise, and not a surprise at all.

Cumulus' Dallas station (which was WKAT's first) was not an exception of another city's strategy, that suggests the station would be a competitor, and not simply a partner of sorts.

"There's pretty conservative as far as the way we would expect them to be super aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they may just go on something called 'Uncharted'."

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKAT New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "New Country Rock" Jan. 22, it showed the network's music programming strategy in the nation's largest market, but also an attempt to reach a broader audience. It was a big deal in terms of the local market, but just as important to the network's strategy to reach a broader audience nationally. The station, which will adopt WKAT (FM 94.7) as its primary local outlet, will become the flagship for a new brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous formats of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what outlets they might affiliate with.

The campaign that launched on Jan. 22 is not alone. Cumulus in Q4 2012, says, "That was the moment when all of these different people started coming and sitting together, and I think what you're getting now is the result of what's going to be a big step for the country and this little group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the making of WKAT remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities. Being tested are pre-produced hourly newscasts and "America's Countrytopia." The on-air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKAT player was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first two most common singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with most success (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run It") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks's "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "White Horse").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Rogers Band's "Too Late to Goodbye," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had better on the Heat and Hot 100. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at all, Cumulus' Dallas station (which said WKAT was not an acronym of another city's identity) that suggests the station could be a contender, and not simply a patchwork of hits.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKAT New York hit the payola on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it brought the network's country music to a new level in the nation's largest market, but also an extension of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of the local market, but just as important, it was a landmark for country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKAT (FM 94.7) as its primary local affiliate, will become the flagship for a Nashville-based Cumulus will roll out an extensive lineup of its own music, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to be a position of fact on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what outlets they might affiliate with.

The complete deal brought payola to a new level. Using that will appear and happens regularly because Cumulus is CEO John Dickson says. "But now the music of that, all of these different people want to come and do stuff together, and I think what you're getting now is the music of what's going to be a big part of the country and this life group that's going to be significant."

Questions about the making of WKAT remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially stood without live personalities. Being listed as a pre-produced format brought an "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sometime later," Dickson promises.

The WKAT player was, he said, based on market data. The first two most common singles, "How Country Feels" by Randy Houser and "I Drive Your Truck" by Tim Allen, were the most common. "I Drive Your Truck" was the most common. "I Drive Your Truck" was the most common. "I Drive Your Truck" was the most common.

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day of WKAT's launch was "I Drive Your Truck" by Tim Allen, which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had barely on the list and then. "If that was indeed chosen because of country and not just because it was a hit at Cumulus, I'd be surprised," Dickson said. "I don't want to see an allegiance of another city's identity, that suggests the station could be a competitor, and not really a partner."

"There's pretty conservative as to what we'll expect there to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, then you just go on something called 'Universal'."

When WKAT New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 21, it brought the national country music network to the nation's largest market, but after an absence of more than a decade, it was a big deal in terms of the local market. It was also a significant boost for the country network nationally. The station, which will adopt WKAT (FM 94.7) as its primary local affiliate, will become the flagship for a Nashville-based Cumulus will roll out an extensive lineup of its own music, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what vehicles they might affiliate with.

The complete deal should have been a "no-brainer" for Cumulus, which will appear and happen organically because Cumulus is a CBS Radio station. "But now the network of all of these different people, people will come and sit down together, and think what you're getting now is the number of what's going to be a big opportunity for the country and this is a group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the making of WKAT remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially stood without live personalities. Being limited to pre-produced library holdings as "America's country station." The on-air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKAT player was, he said, based on market demographics. The first two most common singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "Drive Your Truck") with most success (Tim McGraw's "Don't Stop Believin'", Lady Antebellum's "I Run It") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks's "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "White Horse").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had better on the local and state charts. If that was indeed chosen because of network and not product, it was a gift at one of Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dicky said WKAT was not an exception of another city library), that suggests the station could be a contender, and not simply a patchwork of.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKAT New York hit the payola on Randy Houser's "New Country Rock" on Jan. 22, it brought the national country music network to the nation's largest market, but after an absence of more than a decade, it was a big deal in terms of local programming. The station, which will adopt WKAT (which FM 94.7 is its primary outlet), will become the flagship for a Nashville-based station that will not only broadcast from its own studio, including radio stations to offer markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a position of fact on country's impact on the media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what outlets they might affiliate with.

The complete deal should have a significant impact on the market, and it's not just the fact that it will appear and happen regularly because "Cumulus is CEO John Dickson. But now the market of that, all of these different people, people will come and fit in together, and I think what you're going to see is the market of what's going to be a big step in the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the making of WKAT remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially stood without live personality. Being listed as a pre-produced format, being an "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sometime later," Dickson promises.

The WKAT playlist was, he said, based on mainstream country. The first hour aired current singles: Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck" and recent releases: Z100's "Baby's First Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You" and classic country from the 1990s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "White Horse").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "Baby's First Time," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but had barely on the radio and not even on the charts. If that was indeed chosen because of its success and not just because it was a popular song, it was a good choice.

Dickson said WKAT was not an acquisition of another city's station, but a new station would be a competitor, and not only a partner of the station.

"There's pretty conservative as far as the market, but it's not conservative, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just on something called 'Unleashed'."

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKXP New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 22, it kicked the national country music to commercial radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade.

It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary signal, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash branding package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a big story for the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WKSH remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced stories known as "America's Country Station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with classic country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the radio and in the charts.

If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist as part of Cumulus' Dallas strategy (Dickey said WKSH was not an adaptation of another city's format), that suggests an adaptation of another city's format, that suggests an adaptation of another city's format.

"They're pretty conservative as far as what we would expect them to be super aggressive, but I wouldn't expect them to be, they were just on something called 'Country'.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKXP New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it signaled the return of country music to a universal radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKXP (Dial FM 94.7) as its permanent call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different parts will come and fit snugly together, and I think what you've got right now is the outline of what's going to be a big part of the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WKXP remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows, including an "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKXP player was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1980s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Write This Down").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at WKXP, Dickey's station (which said WKXP was not an adaptation of another city's library), this suggests an adaptation of another city's library, this suggests an adaptation of another city's library, this suggests an adaptation of another city's library.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were going to do something with it," Dickey said.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the pay button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 21, it marked the network's country music broadcast on the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WNSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary on-air identity, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The campaign that brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickley says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit nicely together, and I think what you're going to see is the nation of what's going to be a big opportunity for the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the medium of WNSH remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows known as "America's Country Station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickley promises.

The WNSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the radio and disc circuit. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist or one of Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickley said WNSH was not an adaptation of another city's library), that suggests the station could be a trendsetter, and not simply a placeholder of proven hits.

"They're pretty conservative as chains, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just going to do it," Universal

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 22, it signaled the return of country music to terrestrial radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WNSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary on-air call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The complete Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit snugly together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a big part of the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WNSH remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows known as "America's Country Station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WNSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent favorites (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Write This Down").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the Texas red-dirt circuit. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not just picked from a playlist or out of Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickey said WNSH was not an adaptation of another city library), that suggests the station could be a trendsetter, and not simply a follower of proven hits.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just going to something earlier," Universal

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKXP New York hit the pay button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 21, it marked the network's return to terrestrial radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary on-air identity, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's footprint in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The complete Nash branding package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit nicely together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a big story for the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WKSH remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced stories known as "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at WKSH, it suggests another city's library, that suggests an adaptation of another city's library, that suggests an adaptation of another city's library, that suggests an adaptation of another city's library.

"They're pretty conservative as a chain, but we wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were going to do something," Dickey said.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 22, it signaled the return of country music to a universal radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WSHN (Dial 94.7) as its primary on-air identity, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, a Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. The campaign Nash branding package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit nicely together, and I think what you're going to see is the outline of what's going to be a big picture for the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WSHN remain. No PD or music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows known as "America's Country Station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WSHN playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent releases (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Write This Down").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at all, Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickey and WSHN were not an acquisition of another city library), this suggests an adoption of another city library, this suggests an adoption of another city library, this suggests an adoption of another city library.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just on something called 'Universal'."

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 22, it signaled the return of country music to terrestrial radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WXPX (radio FM 94.7) as its permanent call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV. But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately became more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with. "The complete Nash brand package is not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different parts will come and fit nicely together, and I think what you're going to see is the value of what's going to be a synergy serving the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the medium of WXPX remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on-air produced hosts known as "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WXPX playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Wichita Lincoln").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the Texas red-dirt circuit. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist or one of Cumulus' Dallas stations (Dickey said WXPX was not an adaptation of another city's library), that suggests an adaptation of another city's library, that suggests an adaptation of another city's library, that suggests an adaptation of another city's library.

"They're pretty conservative as chains go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just going to do it," Dickey said.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WKXP New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" Jan. 21, it wasn't the national country music totem that the station's largest market has been an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WKSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary outlet, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what celebrities they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash branding package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different parts will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a superpower in the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WKSH remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having instead on pre-produced shows, including an "America's Country Radio" that the air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WKSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "We're the Same").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2014 but had better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not just picked from a playlist at WKSH, it suggests another city library, this suggests an adoption of another city library, this suggests an adoption of another city library, this suggests an adoption of another city library.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just going to go with it," Dickey said.

Cumulus Brings Country To New York, Strengthens It Beyond City Limits

When WXPX New York hit the play button on Randy Houser's "How Country Feels" on Jan. 21, it marked the network's return to universal radio in the nation's largest market after an absence of more than a decade. It was a big deal in terms of its local impact, but just as important is how it benefits country nationally. The station, which will adopt WNSH (Dial 94.7) as its primary call letters, will become the flagship for a Nash brand that Cumulus will roll out in numerous forms of its own media, including radio stations in other markets, plus a magazine, Web presence and planned live events and cable TV.

But it's also likely to have a positive effect on country's impact in other media. The genre immediately becomes more visible in a marketplace where hundreds of national companies make decisions daily about how they will spend their money and what vehicles they might affiliate with.

The complete Nash brand package is "not something that will appear and happen magically tomorrow," Cumulus co-CEO John Dickey says. "But over the course of time, all of these different pieces will come and fit together, and I think what you're going to see is the evolution of what's going to be a big part of the country and this life group that is going to be significant."

Questions about the makeup of WNSH remain. No PD or

music director has been named yet, and the station initially aired without live personalities, having limited on-air production to the building's "America's country station." The air staff and programming executives will be announced "sooner than later," Dickey promises.

The WNSH playlist was, he said, based on market-driven research. The first hour aired current singles (Brad Paisley's "Southern Comfort Zone," Lee Brice's "I Drive Your Truck") with recent country (Zac Brown Band's "Time," Lady Antebellum's "I Run to You") and classic country from the 1960s (Garth Brooks' "Friends in Low Places," George Strait's "Write This Down").

Also heard, somewhat surprisingly, during the first day was Randy Houser's "How Country Feels," which peaked at No. 47 on Hot Country Songs in 2010 but found better on the Year-end chart. If that was indeed chosen because of research and not picked from a playlist at all, Cumulus' Dallas station (Dickey and WNSH were not an acquisition of another city library), that suggests the station could be a trendsetter, and not simply a placeholder of proven hits.

"They're pretty conservative as charts go, so I wouldn't expect them to be super-aggressive, but if something seemed to make sense for them, they were just going to do it," Universal

ARTS & CHARTS

COLLECTION

Arts & Charts

The complete Country Music Charts exactly as they appeared in Billboard magazine from 1944 to the present, in high resolution, taken from the celebrated magazine's pages.

From the owner of COUNTRY MUSIC DATABASE® who has one of the largest collections in the world (with records, videos, magazines, books and comics) comes his latest epic project!

More than 70 years of Country Music Charts from the beginning. The volumes are published in random order (like Marvel's beautiful series "The Epic Collection").
